on the regular ticket Shepard Democrats.

The Executive Committee of the regulars will meet to-night and settle the advances of Mr. Shepard for harmony in National politics. The Committee will also select a candidate for City Comptroller in place of George Kinkei, who refused to run on the ticket.

The most available candidate spoken of this morning was Hubert O. Smith, at present Deputy Comptroller.

The Campaign Committee is making preparations for the grand mass-meeting at the Academy of Music to-mortownight, when Senator Hill will visit Brooklyn. Chairman Bell received a letter from Mr. Hill this morning, in which the Senator asks to have the reception part of the programme omitted.

He said the tax of a public reception would be too much of a strain for him. For this reason the reception will not be given.

The speakers at the meeting will be

The speakers at the meeting will be Senator Hill, Daniel N. Lockwood and E. Ellery Anderson, the Anti-Snapper. James D Bell will call the meeting to order, and Edward M. Grout will be selected as permanent chairman. There will be no decorations. Conterno's band will furnish the music.

Emma Schrling Held for the Grand Jury for Shoplifhting. Emma Schorling, a good looking girl, eighteen years old, was arraigned before Justice Goetting in the Lee Avenue Court, Williamsburg, to-day on genera harges of grand larceny. She was arrested last Saturday night harged with having taken a diamond ring from a trayful of jewelry, which eweller H. T. Gundlach, of 332 Bedford avenue was showing to her.

Mrs. Schorling. Emma's mother, told

Justice Goetting that she desired to have the matter thoroughly investigated, as she was convinced that her daughter had been led into crime by an older had been led into crime by an older woman.

"What was it that caused you to think it was easier to steal and get money than to work and make an honest living?" asked Mrs. Schorling.

My friend, Mrs. Segur taught me to steal. I never thought it was so easy until I saw her do it," replied the prisoner.

Then Justice Goetting asked "Where does Mrs. Segur live?" "At 756 Grand street," was the answer. After some further questioning. Emma implicated a Miss Borch, who, she declared, now has some of the stolen property in her possession.

Justice Goetting remanded the prisoner to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Incorporation of Arverne.

Justice Bartlett, in the Supreme Court. Brooklyn, this morning heard an argunent by Lawyer Jesse Johnson for an injunction restraining the Supervisor and Town Clerk of Hempstead from holding an election at Arverne to-mor-vote on the incorporation of Arverne as a village. The Supervisor and Town a village. The Supervisor and Town Clerk did not appear.

Mr. Johnson said that the law required at least 300 people to each square mile. He said that in the second mile there were no inhabitants, and the owners of Arverne simply wanted to take the property of the New Venice Land Company into the new village so as to make that Company help pay expenses.

Remington Vernam, the largest real estate owner of Arverne, said that the incorporators of the proposed village only asked that the people should have the right to vote for or against incorporation.

Judge Bartlett took the reason.
